Question: Compare and contrast pizzas and burgers, which is the better food and why?

Introduction

There are many similarities and some differences between pizza and burgers. While both foods are popular, pizza is a better food because it is healthier, cheaper, tastes better and is easier to eat.

Paragraph 1

There are many similarities between pizza and burgers. Both are considered fast foods. They can often be quite unhealthy but pizza is genuinely seen to be healthier. Both foods are considered delicious. However, a survey of my peers indicated that 20 out of 25 students preferred pizza over a burger. Both foods are round and can be eaten with your hands. While there are many similarities between the two foods, there are also some differences.

Paragraph 2

Differences include pizza being a flatter food than a burger. It is also cut up into smaller portions so it is easier to eat with your hands. Pizza also is larger, and can often be shared with a friend. As pizzas and burgers often cost around the same amount of money, pizza is better value since it can be shared between two people.

Paragraph 3

Pizza is the better food. There are several reasons for this. Pizza is easier to eat because it can be cut up into smaller portions. It tastes better, as indicated by the survey of my peers and is deemed healthier. It is also cheaper, because it can be shared between two people. For these reasons, pizza is a better food.

Conclusion

While there are many similarities between pizza and burgers, there are also some differences which help to distinguish the foods from each other. These differences result in one being better than the other. It was decided that pizza is the better food because it is healthier, cheaper, tastes better and is easier to eat.
